

Leadership

British Columbia, Canada

My House

Leadership

Top four people-leadership skills

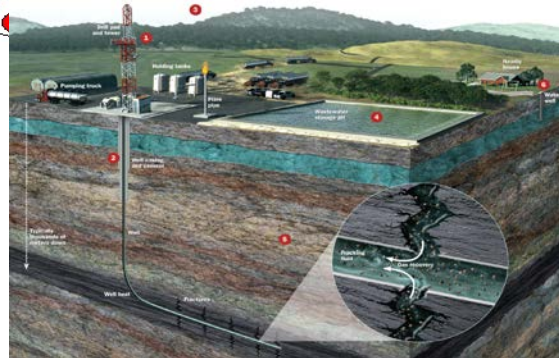

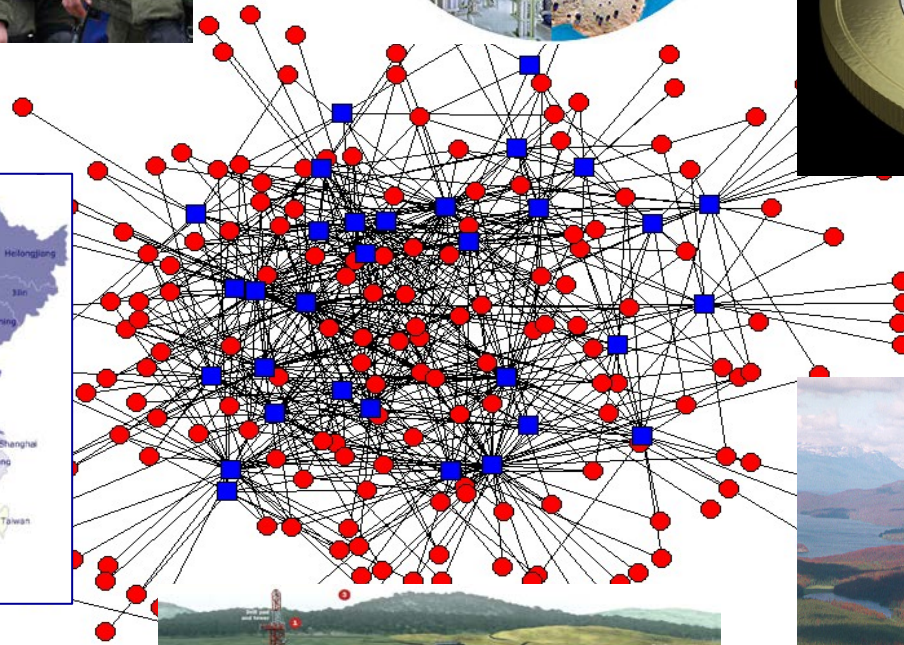

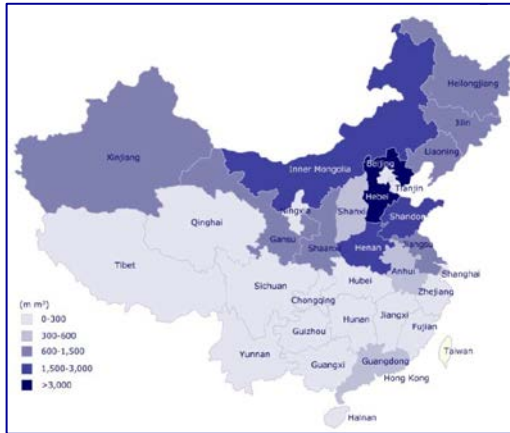

1. Listening for and incorporating feedback

Top four people-leadership skills

- 1. Listening for and incorporating feedback
- 2. Integrating people leadership with policy expertise
- 3. Getting durable results.

SEE THE MOMENT

CREATIVE DESTRUCTION

Top four people-leadership skills

- 1. Listening for and incorporating feedback
- 2. Integrating people leadership with policy expertise
- 3. Getting durable results.
- 4. Engaging the right people at the right moment

The image shows a close-up of two footprints in a sandy surface. The footprints are arranged vertically, with one at the top and one at the bottom. The sand is a light, textured grey. The footprints are dark, showing the tread of a shoe. The text "Change is a process, not an event." is centered between the two footprints in a white, bold, sans-serif font.

Change is a process,
not an event.

www.illustration.com © 2007

THANK YOU

